

How are you connected to the world around you, and how is the world connected to you?

HexaPlaques helps you to discover what is hidden just below the surface of the places you pass. Both in your local area and around the UK, HexaPlaques will give you the opportunity to see how these places are connected to local communities, visitors and ultimately to yourself.

The locations you pass can be placed into one of three categories:

Headliners are the hard-hitters of the local area, not to be missed, they are the places you will have heard about time and time again.

The Hidden Gems are the smaller, but no less intriguing places that are commonly bypassed by the usual visitor, maybe a roman bath hidden in the basement of a shop, or the intricate architecture of a Tudor house.

Finally there are Untold Stories, chosen by local communities, these are the tales that are intertwined with the heritage of local culture, the family bakery that was handed down through the generations or the crooked house hidden down a side street, damaged in the war.

As you pass a point of interest, the Bluetooth beacon in the HexaPlaques sends a notification to the app on your phone, allowing you to share your story with other users. You can then explore other connections leading from this location out into the wider network and view the path you have taken to see how these people and locations are connected back to you.
